

ANGELA'S MAKEOVER

PART TWO

ACNE AND ACNE SCARS

ANGELA SAYS

Well after getting over my nerves and having my gummy smile altered I was even more intrigued to find out what else I was missing, as a sufferer of PCOS (poly cystic ovarian syndrome) my skin has always played havoc with me. Some days I can look clear and my skins glowing and other days my skin has a major break out and can look greasy and very spotty which happens more often than I would like.

Frances had mentioned to me about skin peels, derma rollers and her own selection of products but again like how I felt about the gummy smile I was nervous I had never found a product or face wash that I could use regularly without there being a problem further down the line. Frances has a range called Suisse

Absolute which is the latest in must have skin care, stem cell plant technology, she explained how the products and the treatment plan would work, side effects and what to expect. I still wasn't convinced she was going to be able to stop my terrible break outs but I couldn't have been more wrong. We started the skin treatments back in April this year, and have only used the Suisse Absolute skin care range serum pure, cleanser pure, cream soft and daily SPF medium which is a make up and SPF in one. Don't get me wrong my skin had to go through a rough patch to get to the good side and boy o boy am I glad I embarked on this journey. As you can see after 6 months of skin treatments and using the products as directed by Frances. I have noticed a huge difference even my friends and family are noticing a huge difference. The spots have gone, the greasy feeling has disappeared and I am feeling happier and lot more confident.....now frances has me hooked. I have changed from a non girlie girl to a very happy girlie girl.....thanks frances x

FRANCES SAYS

It has been a pleasure to help Angela through her gummy smile and skin makeover journey, I find a lot of clients who first come to see me at first are nervous about trying new treatments, let alone trying everything out at once. It is important clients feel comfortable with their practitioner and that they build up a relationship of mutual trust. By helping Angela's gummy smile initially, it gave her the confidence to discuss her skin concerns, I treat a lot of women who suffer with PCOS (poly cystic ovarian syndrome) and other hormone related skin conditions such as cystic acne, acne vulgaris, acne rosacea, and rosacea due to the menopause. A combination approach to these skin dilemmas is crucial to the success of the skin responding and being able to repair itself quickly when an out break occurs. As there are no cures for these skin diseases, I am able to use aesthetic treatments, conventional antibiotic therapy she needed and the fantastic Suisse Absolute skin care range which is at the forefront of plant stem cell technology to enable to treat and calm there skin on a daily basis.
