Brad Pitt

BRAD Pitt blasts back onto the big screen in the much touted Mr and Mrs Smith next week – and the 41-year-old hunk looks as good as ever.

The picture on the left is from the movie, the one on the right from his breakthrough in Thelma And Louise, 14 years ago.

The ageing process certainly isn't making a dent in Brad's appeal!

So is it all down to good genes or has he, as some rumours claim, had a little help from a Swedish doc known as "Dr Needles"? Over to our experts...

"I need to congratulate him on keeping his skin so young.

"He could be having Mesotherapy, where they use a very small needle to rejuvenate and hydrate the skin with hyaluronic acid and vitamins.

"Or a resurfacing skin peel, which is an effective method of improving the skin by removing dead skin cells, reducing fine lines and closing pores.

"Also, a nutrition expert could use blood tests to assess the nutritional value of his diet and make recommendations."

CELEBRITY SURGERY SPY

JENNIFER LOPEZ may have already packed a lot into her life – as well as conquering the worlds of music, film and fashion she's already on her third marriage – but it's certainly not showing on her face.

IN the latest photographs, J.Lo's features are now better proportioned and her skin continues to look lush and glowing.

However, the apple of her cheeks (above, right) now appear to be more rounded. This could indicate use of a filler such as Bio-Alcamid.

Forehead lines are still apparent, but she may have had Botox to soften them. This would also have the effect of lifting and opening the eye as eyes look more open in later photographs.

J.Lo's top lip appears more defined. This could indicate the use of a filler.
