CAPRICE

THEN

NOW

FOR years now rumours have run riot about just how much help Caprice has had from the surgeon's hands. From boob job to nose reshaping, lip enhancement to brow-lift, the finger has been pointed. Yet in a new interview, the 34-year-old model still claims she's never had any cosmetic work. So what do our experts reckon?

MARY BURNEY, director of clinical services at Transform Medical Group, the UK's largest cosmetic surgery group (0500 202020)

CAPRICE is good looking and it's likely her appearance could be the result of a variety of non-surgical treatments on her face. On the most recent photo, her upper lip looks plumper than before and this could have been achieved with collagen injections (from £200).

She also appears to have few or no wrinkles, which is unlikely in someone of her age. Her wrinkles could have been smoothed out with the use of Botox (from £200).

She may also have had a facial peel (from £500).

HER cheekbones have become more rounded and defined, which could be due to an injectable volume-filling gel such as Bio-Alcamid.

On the other hand this may have had an impact on creating the undereye lines.

Her lips appear fuller and plumper which can be achieved with a filler such as Evolence.

Her skin is excellent, taut and glowing, which could indicate treatments such as deep chemical peels for smoothness and IPL for collagen boosting.

PARIS HILTON

APPARENTLY, party princess Paris Hilton, 25, has been looking into a possible tummy tuck after suggestions that she might be pregnant. But has Paris spent those Hilton millions on any other cosmetic tweaking? Here's what our experts reckon:

I DON'T feel she's had many non-surgical procedures. However, in both pictures, her lips look very full, which may indicate the use of fillers.

Her eyes appear fresher and her eyebrows are more elevated, which can be achieved by micro-pigmentation make-up.

Her face is more defined in the recent photo which is probably due to weight loss.

She probably has regular facials with mild skin peels and Intense Pulsed Light to boost collagen and treat sun damage.

However, the lack of sun damage shows she knows how to protect her skin.

PARIS doesn't appear to have had any cosmetic surgery procedures. She merely appears to have grown up and into her features.

She has beautiful and even-toned skin which may have been given a helping hand by non-surgical treatments such as microdermabrasion.

No doubt she also has regular facials and beauty treatments.

At the end of the day, though, she does have age on her side and as such, has no wrinkles. However, once they begin to develop, she could use Botox to slow them down.

JOAN COLLINS

THE 72-year-old star is certainly an ever-green beauty, but has Joanie had extra help. Here's what our experts reckon.

JOAN does seem to have aged remarkably well, but I think it's unlikely that she would be looking quite that fabulous without a substantial amount of help.

I'd not be surprised if she had had a full facelift as her skin looks very taut and smooth and she has no jowls or loose skin, most unusual in someone of her age. Her lips also look a little plumper than they did when she was younger and this could collagen injections. She appears to have almost no nasal-labial (nose-to-mouth) lines and this could be achieved with the use of dermal fillers such as Restylane or Perlane. She appears to have few or no wrinkles and these could have been smoothed out with Botox. She may also have had various facial peels.

FRANCES FURLONG, nurse practitioner at City Skinklinic (0870 751 3870 or contact www.cityskinklinic.co.uk)

WHAT an amazing woman. Fifty years have passed and she is still looking radiant. She definitely knows how to dress and, above all, the art of grooming.

Bearing in mind that facial surgery does not last for ever, Joan may have had thread lifting which is an excellent, less invasive facial lifting method for those who have already had facial surgery. (It is also recommended for younger people.)

She certainly knows how to care for her skin with no visible sun damage. Her neck is immaculate. This is very rare for a lady of her age and this can be achieved using a combination of thread lift to lift, mesotherapy to nourish the skin and muscle relaxing injections to smooth horizontal lines.
