KATE HUDSON

GOLDIE'S GIRL is all grown up, with Kate Hudson now one of Tinseltown's leading ladies. But has the 27-year-old had an extra helping hand with her Hollywood transformation? Here's what our experts reckon...

THE EXPERTS' VERDICT

MARY BURNEY, who is director of clinical services at Transform Medical Group, the UK's largest cosmetic surgery group (Tel: 0500 202020).

KATE'S clearly inherited her mother Goldie Hawn's fantastic genes.

Goldie looks fabulous for her age and Kate is not only gorgeous too but also looks young for her age. Kate doesn't appear to have had any cosmetic surgery and merely appears to have grown up and into her features.

She has beautiful and very even-toned skin which may have been given a helping hand by some non-surgical treatments such as micro-dermabrasion (from £55) or maybe a skin peel (from £500).

No doubt she also has regular facials and beauty treatments.

Though really she does have age on her side and has no wrinkles as yet.

KATE'S neck in the before picture shows signs of sun damage, uneven pigment and broken veins but now looks immaculate.

She probably has had treatment with Intense Pulsed Light (IPL).

Her face looks fuller which is possibly due to weight gain during pregnancy. Her lips also appear to have more volume. Restylane Lipp is a lip filler that gives a lovely soft full look.

Her skin now looks radiant and her grooming and posture is immaculate.

Her eyelashes look thicker and this can be achieved with eyeliner done with permanent make-up.

This is a great solution for fair-lashed people as, done well, it can give a natural look without any hardness.

PRINCE

THE name may have changed a few times but Prince's appearance has altered little over the years. His purpleness might be 48 next month but he's not got a wrinkle. What's his secret? Here's what our experts reckon.

FRANCES Furlong, nurse practitioner at City Skinklinic (0870 751 3870 or contact www.cityskinklinic.co.uk).

IN the then picture, Prince's skin appears to have an uneven tone with darker patches, a common problem with darker skins.

This is down to their higher melanin content, so it is vital even those with dark skins use a daily sun protection with a high SPF.

His skin looks immaculate in the now picture. It could be make-up, but treatments such as microdermabrasion and depigmenting may have contributed.

His eyebrows are more arched. This can be achieved with a thread lift and fillers placed under the outer edge of the eyebrow.

A muscle relaxant may have been used to smooth his forehead.

His lips are now fuller and plumper. Restylane Lipp can give this effect.

MARY BURNEY, director of clinical services at Transform Medical Group, the UK's largest cosmetic surgery group (0500 202020).

PRINCE is looking remarkably fresh-faced at the age of 48.

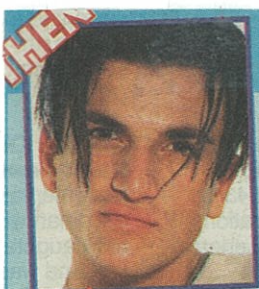

Although his type of skin does age very well as it is far more resistant to sun damage and wrinkles, I think he may also have had a little help from some non-surgical treatments.

His nasal-labial lines are far less pronounced in the now picture suggesting filler use such as Restylane or Perlane.

His eyebrows also look considerably higher and his forehead very smooth.

This can be achieved by the use of Botox in the forehead and around the eyes.

His cheeks are also a lot plumper and more defined which would suggest the use of a filler product such as sculptra or bioalcamid.

CELEBRITY SURGERY SPY Peter Andre

KEEPING up with glamour queen Jordan, 27, is never going to be easy but Peter Andre, 33, does his best to be well groomed.

With perma-tan, gleaming smile and perfect hair Pete's not a fan of the rough-and-ready look. But has he gone a bit further?

He admits to botox but what about that seemingly changing nose shape and taut skin? Here's what our experts reckon.

No doubt he has regular facials which may incorporate microdermabrasion. We incorporate it with a vitamin mask which nourishes and hydrates the skin.

In the after picture he seems to be wrinkle-free to the forehead and eye area which could indicate the use of a muscle relaxing injection.

It is important when treating men to maintain a masculine expression or you could give a feminine look.

Being married to Jordan has ensured his grooming is immaculate!

It is very difficult to tell if Peter has had any surgical work done. I don't think he has had his nose reshaped. The photograph angles are different as are the facial expressions.

The fact that he has a small beard on the second photograph also alters the proportions of his face by making his nose appear smaller.

He is about 10 years older in the second photo and therefore has grown into his features a bit more.

He clearly takes care of himself with careful diet and exercise and no doubt he has regular facials and maybe microdermabrasion treatments (from £55) to keep his skin looking good.

He has admitted to having botox (from £200) and he may also have had some non-surgical filler such as Restylane (from £225) in his nasal-labial lines (nose to mouth lines).
